CONTENTS OF THE LIST OF TOOLS 216

INTRODUCTION

The present document is intended to provide guidance to the school community in general, and teachers in particular, on the use of digital tools in the educational process. Around 3,000 digital tools have been analysed, from which a list of 1,144 has been selected based on their degree of compliance with European legislation on the protection of personal data (primarily the General Data Protection Regulation or GDPR).

The following points should be taken into consideration:

- This is an advisory document and does not have a prescriptive nature.
- Digital tools of various types have been analysed (free and/or open-source, proprietary software, repositories, platforms, educational applications, websites offering digital content and digital educational content, etc.). In all cases, these are free tools or tools that offer a free or trial version.
- An effort has been made to select digital tools which are, in principle, assumed to not be provided by an Education Authority (EA hereinafter) or the schools, since avoiding duplication is strongly recommended.
- An effort has been made to select a diverse range of digital tools that may be useful to teachers at any level, in any subject area or subject.

Finally, it should be noted that, as mentioned above, the tools have been analysed according to their level of compliance with European data protection legislation, based on an analysis of the legal terms, Considerations and notices published by the tools themselves, and subsequently classified using a colour-coded system resembling that of a traffic light:

GREEN	This means that the tool does not process personal data and could therefore, in principle, be used*.
YELLOW	This means that the tool processes personal data in compliance with current data protection legislation and therefore, in principle, should not be used — although exceptions may apply provided that certain requirements are met *.
RED	This means that the tool does not comply with current data protection legislation and therefore should not be used.
IMPORTANT NOTICE: before proceeding to use any of the tools, platforms or applications mentioned herein, it is necessary to carefully read the sections 'Considerations', 'Recommendations', 'Free and/or Open-Source Software' and 'Embeddable' in this document. It is also essential to thoroughly review all the guidance accompanying each tool in the list.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Before using the tool list, it is necessary to carefully read the sections 'Considerations', 'Recommendations', 'Free and/or Open-Source Software' and 'Embeddable', which are set out below. It is also essential to thoroughly review all the guidance accompanying each tool in the list. The interpretation of these guidelines and the use of the tools referred to therein, regardless of the classification assigned to each of them following its study, is the sole responsibility of the teacher.

LIST STRUCTURE

The list comprises a series of columns and rows:

- The first column of the document indicates the type of digital tool analysed according to its main functionality (for example, whether it is a tool for creating interactive activities, editing audio, editing video, performing statistical analysis, creating quizzes and surveys, editing vector graphics, etc.).
- The second column indicates the name of the tool in concerned.
- The third column contains a brief description of the tool.
- The fourth column indicates whether it is free and/or open-source software tool or not.
- The fifth column indicates whether the use of the tool requires user registration or not.
- The sixth column is used to indicate other relevant aspects of the tool.
- The seventh column usually contains a link to the privacy policy of the tool.
- The eighth column indicates the date or dates on which the reading an analysis of the contents of the privacy policy of the tool were carried out. This information is relevant because, in order to adapt to ongoing regulatory changes relating to the protection of personal data, they may have been updated since the date on which they were analysed in this document.
- The ninth column indicates the colour code assigned to the tool, i.e. whether the tool has been assigned a red, yellow or green colour according to its level of compliance with European data protection legislation.
- The tenth and eleventh columns refer specifically to the user: the tenth column contains guidance for teachers on how the relevant tool should (or should not) be used on the basis of the prior analysis; and the eleventh column contains the relevant guidance for students.

- The twelfth column indicates whether the tool and/or the content created with it are embeddable.
- The final column usually contains one or more links with information on the accessibility of the tool, which is normally provided by the service provider.

CONSIDERATIONS

1. This document refers to the use of tools, platforms or applications for educational purposes, never to tools, platforms or applications used for administrative or management purposes.
2. As a general rule, tools, platforms or applications other than those provided by the EA or the school must not be used.
3. It is important to bear in mind that this refers to the use of educational platforms, tools or applications made available to the general public (without an agreement between the EAs and the companies providing them).
4. Furthermore, these tools, platforms or applications must be used exclusively on electronic devices provided by the schools.
5. If, after confirming that it is not provided by the EA or the schools, a specific external educational tool, application or platform that processes personal data is to be used, it is necessary to carry out an assessment to ensure that it strictly complies with the applicable data protection and privacy legislation, as well as to obtain the permission of the EA and/or school concerned, which will provide appropriate information on the procedure to be followed. To carry out the assessment referred to above, the school will consult the Data Protection Officer concerned, which will in turn issue a response to the consultation on whether or not the external tool, platform or application is suitable for use from a data protection perspective, and that response must be respected.

6. Under no circumstances may the tool, application or platform be used to process administrative data with legal effects (e.g. management of absences, assessment of knowledge or aptitude tests, etc.). Official institutional tools already exist for this purpose.
7. The application will be used as one more tool within the educational process (associated with an area, subject or module) in order to enhance learning. The group of students and the teacher will be the only participants in the use of the tool.
8. Where it is necessary to store or retain work produced as a result of its use, it will be stored in the cloud or virtual learning environment provided by the relevant EA or school, never in the external tool, application or platform.
9. Work, final products and/or tests must never be disseminated or published through the tool, application or platform, either by teachers or by students. The tools provided by the EA or the school must be used for this purpose.
10. Parents or legal guardians, where applicable, will be informed of the activity through official institutional channels, never through the external tool, application or platform or through social networks or instant messaging services.
11. It should be recalled that the interpretation of these guidelines and the use of the tools described therein, regardless of the classification assigned to each tool following its assessment, is the sole responsibility of the teacher. Therefore, any incorrect use of these tools, including those classified as 'green' in the document, may result in administrative or sanctioning proceedings for failure to comply with the applicable legislation.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Tools, applications or platforms that do not process personal data

Once it has been established that the features offered by the external tool, platform or application we wish to use cannot be obtained through the platforms and tools provided by the EA or the schools (including those declared complementary through an agreement between a private company and the relevant EA), and that the type of information to be processed by it does not include the processing of personal data relating to data subjects, the tool, platform or application could, in principle, be used with students solely for educational purposes.

To ensure that the tool, platform or application does not process personal data, a prior assessment of the tool is recommended, for which the school will consult the Data Protection Officer concerned, which will in turn issue a response to the consultation on whether or not the external tool, platform or application is suitable for use from a data protection perspective, and that response must be respected.

Likewise, if the use of the tool, platform or application is approved following a favourable response to the consultation made by the school, although it is not mandatory, it would be recommended and constitute good educational practice:

- Inform students and, where applicable, their parents or legal guardians, in a clear and understandable manner, prior to its use, about the intended use of the tool, platform or application, and about the fact that no personal data will be processed.
- Include the tool, platform or application in the school's digital strategy.

ANNEXES

- Model for the assessment of digital tools, platforms and applications from a data protection perspective.

- Plan Digital de Centro. Descripción y guía (School Digital Plan. Description and guide).

Tools, applications or platforms that process personal data in anonymised or pseudonymised form

In the case of tools, applications or platforms that process personal data but allow anonymised or pseudonymised use by students, the following aspects should be taken into account:

1. Ensure that the features offered by the tool or application cannot be obtained through the platforms, tools or applications provided by the EA or the schools (including those declared complementary through an agreement between a private company and the relevant EA)
2. Determine the type of information to be processed by the tool, application or platform.
3. Where students' personal data are processed, they must be limited to the minimum necessary and anonymised or pseudonymised. Therefore, in principle, students should not be required to use tools or applications that require registration — using their name and/or email account, for instance — although it may be possible to use those that allow anonymised or pseudonymised use through, for example, the use of a code.
4. It must be ensured that the anonymisation or pseudonymisation of students' personal data does not allow their re-identification in any way.
5. The security policy of the tool or application must be comprehensive, intelligible and easily accessible.
6. Providers that provide information transparently and clearly should be selected. For example, they should make it possible to determine: (a) where their servers are located; (b) who the controller is; (c) the purposes for which the data will be used; (d) whether data may be disclosed to third parties (and their identity); (e) what rights data subjects have; (f) where the data are located; (g) the retention period; (h) what security measures are provided by the tool or application; etc.

7. The servers on which personal data are stored should be located in the EU.
8. Where international transfers take place, it is necessary to ensure that appropriate safeguards are in place to permit the international transfer.
9. Before using the tool, platform or application, an assessment must be carried out to ensure that it strictly complies with applicable data protection and privacy legislation and allows anonymised or pseudonymised use with no possibility of re-identification, as well as to obtain the permission of the EA and/or school concerned, which will provide appropriate information on the procedure to be followed. To carry out the assessment referred to above, the school will consult the Data Protection Officer concerned, which will in turn issue a response to the consultation on whether or not the external tool, platform or application is suitable for use from a data protection perspective, and that response must be respected.

Again, if the use of the tool, platform or application is approved following a favourable response to the consultation made by the school, although it is not mandatory, it would be recommended and constitute good educational practice:

- Inform students and, where applicable, their parents or legal guardians, in a clear and understandable manner, prior to its use, about the intended use of the tool, platform or application, and about the fact that no personal data will be processed.
- Include the tool, platform or application in the school's digital strategy.

Tools, applications or platforms that process personal data without anonymisation or pseudonymisation

In the case of tools, applications or platforms that process personal data and do not allow students to use them anonymously or pseudonymously, it is important to take the following aspects into account:

1. Ensure that the features offered by the tool or application cannot be obtained through the platforms, tools or applications provided by the EA or the schools (including those declared complementary through an agreement between a private company and the relevant EA)
2. Determine the type of information to be processed by the tool, application or platform.
3. Where students' personal data are processed, they must be limited to the minimum necessary. Therefore, in principle, students should not be required to use tools or applications that require — using their name and/or email account, for instance —.
4. The security policy of the tool or application must be comprehensive, intelligible and easily accessible.
5. Providers that provide information transparently and clearly should be selected. For example, they should make it possible to determine: (a) where their servers are located; (b) who the controller is; (c) the purposes for which the data will be used; (d) whether data may be disclosed to third parties (and their identity); (e) what rights data subjects have; (f) where the data are located; (g) the retention period; (h) what security measures are provided by the tool or application; etc.
6. The servers on which personal data are stored should be located in the EU.
7. Where international transfers take place, it is necessary to ensure that appropriate safeguards are in place to permit the international transfer.
8. If, despite all the considerations se out above, the use of the type of tools, platforms or applications covered in this section is still considered necessary, before using them an assessment must be carried out to ensure that they strictly comply with applicable data protection and privacy legislation, as well as to obtain the permission of the EA and/or school concerned, which will provide appropriate information on the procedure to be followed. To carry out the assessment referred to above, the school will consult the Data Protection Officer concerned, which will in turn issue a response to the consultation on whether or not the external tool, platform or application is suitable for use from a data protection perspective, and that response must be respected.

9. Before using a tool, platform or application, and after both the relevant authorisation and a positive assessment confirming that it complies with European data protection legislation have been obtained, the steps laid down by the relevant EA must be followed, which may include:
    - Inform students and, where applicable, their parents or legal guardians, in a clear and understandable manner, about how the application will be used.
    - Obtain explicit consent from persons over 14 years of age and from the parents or legal guardians of persons under 14 years of age.
    - The need to enter into a data processing agreement between the relevant EA and the service provider.
    - Other.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION: if, after assessing a tool, application or platform, it is concluded that it does not comply with European privacy and data protection legislation, or that there are doubts about its compliance with that legislation, the tool, application or platform must not be used by students under any circumstances. Where the teacher's personal data are processed, it should be borne in mind that the teacher should also refrain from using the tool, application or platform and, if they do use it, they do so in a personal capacity and under their own responsibility as an adult.

ANNEXES

- Model for the assessment of digital tools, platforms and applications from a data protection perspective.
- Plan Digital de Centro. Descripción y guía (School Digital Plan. Description and guide).

FREE AND/OR OPEN-SOURCE SOFTWARE

The fact that a tool is marked with an 'X' in the 'FREE AND/OR OPEN-SOURCE SOFTWARE' column does not necessarily mean that it is not free and/or open-source software, as explained below:

1. A 'YES' next to the tool means that it is free and/or open-source software.
2. If an 'X' appears, it may mean several things:
   a) That it is indeed not free and/or open-source software.
   b) That it has not been possible to obtain the information needed to confirm that it is free and/or open-source software.

EMBEDDABLE

The fact that a tool is marked with an 'X' in the 'EMBEDDABLE' column does not necessarily mean that the tool and/or its outputs cannot be embedded, as explained below:

1. A 'YES' next to the tool means that it is embeddable.
2. If an 'X' appears, it may mean several things:
   a) That it is not embeddable.
   b) That it is embeddable, but:

b.1. The full code is not provided and part of it would need to be added.

b.2. The full code is provided, but not in a direct and intuitive way, so advanced coding knowledge would be required to embed the tool and/or its outputs.

c) That the free version, trial version and/or version not requiring registration does not allow the tool and/or its outputs to be embedded.
d) It has not been possible to obtain the information needed to confirm that itis embeddable.

ANALYSIS

To analyse the different tools, their respective privacy policies have been read and studied carefully (as have the terms of use, DPA: Data Processing Agreement, TOM: Technical and Organisational Measures, etc., where these were accessible).

The main parameters considered when analysing the privacy policies included, among others, the following:

- Verify that the tool security policy of the tool is comprehensive, intelligible and easily accessible.
- Ensure that providers make information available transparently and clearly, enabling users to determine:
    a) where their servers are located,
    b) who the controller is,
    c) the purposes for which the data will be used,
    d) whether the data collected and processed, especially personal data, are limited to what is strictly necessary,
    e) whether data may be disclosed to third parties (and their identity),
    f) what rights data subjects have (see Articles 15 to 22 of the GDPR),
    g) where the data are located,
    h) the retention period,
    i) what security measures are provided by the tool or application, etc.
- Verify the type of information to be processed, paying particular attention to cases in which personal data are processed.

- Verify whether personal data, particularly students' personal data, can be anonymised or pseudonymised without allowing re-identification in any way.
- Where international data transfers outside the European Union take place, ensure that appropriate safeguards are in place to permit such transfers.
- What technical and organisational measures are established to ensure the secure processing of personal data.

ANNEX I. MODEL FOR THE ASSESSMENT OF DIGITAL TOOLS, PLATFORMS AND APPLICATIONS

Introduction

This document includes a possible model for assessing digital tools, platforms and applications from a personal data protection perspective. It has been developed taking into account the recommendations contained in the Informe sobre la utilización por parte de profesores y alumnos de aplicaciones que almacenan datos en nube con sistemas ajenos a las plataformas educativas (Report on the use by teachers and students of applications that store data in the cloud using systems outside educational platforms), elaborated by the Spanish Data Protection Agency (AEPD).

Before you begin

1. This document refers to the use of tools, platforms or applications for educational purposes, never to tools, platforms or applications used for administrative or management purposes.
2. As a general rule, tools, platforms or applications other than those provided by the EA or the school must not be used.
3. It is important to bear in mind that we are referring to educational platforms, tools or applications made available to the general public (without an agreement between the EAs and the companies providing them).
4. Furthermore, these tools, platforms or applications must be used exclusively on electronic devices provided by the schools.
5. If, after confirming that it is not provided by the EA or the schools, a specific external educational tool, application or platform that processes personal data is to be used, it is necessary to carry out an assessment to ensure that it strictly complies with the applicable data-protection and privacy legislation, as well as to obtain the permission of the EA and/or school concerned, which will provide appropriate information on the procedure to be followed. To carry out the assessment referred to above, the school will consult the Data Protection Officer concerned, which will in turn issue a response to the consultation on whether or not the external tool, platform or application is suitable for use from a data protection perspective, and that response must be respected.

6. Under no circumstances may the tool, application or platform be used to process administrative data with legal effects (e.g. management of absences, assessment of knowledge or aptitude tests, etc.). Official institutional tools already exist for this purpose.
7. The application will be used as one more tool within the educational process (associated with an area, subject or module) in order to enhance learning. The group of students and the teacher will be the only participants in the use of the tool.
8. Where it is necessary to store or retain work produced as a result of its use, it will be stored in the cloud or virtual learning environment provided by the relevant EA or school, never in the external tool, application or platform.
9. Work, final products and/or tests must never be disseminated or published through the tool, application or platform, either by teachers or by students. The tools provided by the EA or the school must be used for this purpose.
10. Parents or legal guardians, where applicable, will be informed of the activity through official institutional channels, never through the external tool, application or platform or through social networks or instant messaging services.
11. It should be recalled that the interpretation of these guidelines and the use of the tools described therein, regardless of the classification assigned to each tool following its assessment, is the sole responsibility of the teacher. Therefore, any incorrect use of these tools, including those classified as 'green' in the document, may result in administrative or sanctioning proceedings for failure to comply with the applicable legislation.

Definition of personal data

Article 4 of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) provides the following definition:

> 'personal data' means any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person ('data subject'); an identifiable natural person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identifier such as a name, an identification number, location data, an online identifier or to one or more factors specific to the physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity of that natural person.

Assessment model
